

Abstract of the Disclosure

A method of confirming a receipt of protocol data units (PDU) that can eliminate the starting point polling problem of the conventional window-based polling algorithm widely used in a radio link control is disclosed. The conventional window-based polling algorithm is modified in such a way that the unwanted polling is eliminated when transmitting the protocol data units at the starting point of the communication window.